

RRLC

UPR Resiliency Law Center

LOOKING AT OUTCOMES: WHAT CAN AND SHOULD WE MEASURE TO MAKE OUR CASE AND PROMOTE AND EQUITABLE RECOVERY? VIA ZOOM

Descripción del curso: In this course, experts in the fields of planning, public policy and disaster recovery in Puerto Rico will present the tools and strategies they have developed to evaluate and measure the effectiveness of the use of federal recovery funds. One of the primary lenses to evaluate effectiveness is the equitable results of the recovery process, and the objective is to share with participants ways in which we can build a case for our advocacy efforts and strategies. To illustrate, the resources will present specific examples of the work developed in the Center for a New Economy.

20 de mayo de 2021
1:00pm - 4:00pm

Libre de costo - Público en general
3 créditos EJC: $90.00

Recursos:

Rosanna Torres
Director, Washington DC Office,
Center for a New Economy

Deepak Lamba-Nieves
Research Director & Churchill G. Carey, Jr.
Chair in Economic Development Research
Center for a New Economy

Raúl Santiago Bartolomei
Research Associate
Center for the New Economy

Registro: <https://linktr.ee/resiliencylawcenter.derecho>

EDUCACIÓN
JURÍDICA
CONTINUA
DERECHO UPR

/UPRResLaw

/uprreslaw

resiliencylawcenter.derecho@upr.edu

787-999-9590

Para más información: