Office of Regional Counsel – Caribbean Team
Voluntary Student Internship
Spring, Summer, and Fall 2025

The United States Environmental Protection Agency Region 2 Office of Regional Counsel – Caribbean Team (hereinafter “EPA”) offers an internship opportunity for 2L and 3L students. One student will be selected for each season (spring, summer, and fall 2025). EPA is seeking a law student interested in working with law, policy science and environmental initiatives for communities in Puerto Rico and in the U.S. Virgin Islands. Duties may include:

- Legal research and analysis on environmental science, policy, laws, and regulations.
- Outreach to state agencies and municipalities.
- Support on administrative and judicial cases.
- Drafting legal documents and memoranda, among other tasks.

Candidates should have distinguished themselves by their college experience through outstanding academic performance and leadership in a variety of academic, extracurricular and/or community service activities. EPA seeks a highly motivated candidate who possesses a good work ethic, someone who can work independently, think creatively, solve problems as they arise, work collaboratively, take initiative, be detail-oriented, and take responsibility for task completion. Excellent written and oral communication skills in both English and Spanish are crucial.
